

Save the Date

October 1-2, 2012
Covington, Kentucky
Location to be Announced

A Symposium on
The Future of Manufacturing:
Implications for Education and Training

Co-Hosted by the Trans-Atlantic Technology and Training Alliance and Gateway Community and Technical College

Join us for this international symposium to explore the future of manufacturing in the U.S. and Europe and strategies to be competitive and sustainable.

Speakers Include:

Phillip Singerman, Associate Director for Innovation Industry Services, National Institute of Standards and Technology

Risto Raivio, European Commission Directorate on Education and Culture, Vocational Education and Training Policy

Adam Friedman, Director of Pratt Center for Community Development, Pratt Institute, NYC

Hanne Shapiro, Centre Manager, Danish Technological Institute.

Sponsors Include:

The Kentucky Science and Technology Corporation, Regional Technology Strategies, The Danish Agency for International Education, Trans-Atlantic Technology and Training Alliance, The Kentucky Community and Technical College System, and Gateway Community and Technical College

Danish Agency for International Education

